

Scholarly Publications Database SPD

The SPD was established in 2023 by the Science & Technology Publishing Program at NSTIC; in collaboration with the ICTD and PMO. The database aims to cover all the bibliographic information for KISR scientific journal papers published in peer-reviewed journals with issued KISR numbers, as well as conference papers emanated from KISR projects.

Key Features:

- » Provides coverage from 2015 to present
- » Provides different search parameters
- » Allows you to download with a variety of formats
- » Q1 Bulletin: displays a visual presentation of Q1 papers only

SPD Objectives

- » Serve as a repository for the bibliographic information of KISR journal and conference papers published with an issued KISR number.
- » Make it easier for researchers to retrieve their journal and conference papers for various purposes.
- » Systematically maintain records of all available KISR scientific publications issued with KISR numbers and archived at the PMO.
- » Assist KISR divisions, departments, and committees, such as the promotion and scholarship committees, in providing information related to researchers' publications.
